BERNARD F. GIPSON SR.

EASTSIDE PEDIATRIC CLINIC PROVIDERS

Patty Braun, MD has been a pediatrician at Eastside Family Health Center for over 20 years. She is originally from Colorado and so returned to Denver after her residency to be near her family. She focuses on improving the oral health of children (dental decay is the most common chronic condition of children and yet preventable). She speaks English and Spanish. She is a mother of two children, and while being a mother is her favorite job, she knows it is also the hardest. She loves being outside and is proud to say that she has climbed all of Colorado's mountains over 14,000 feet.

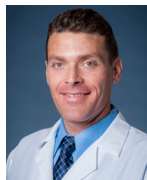

Cassie Burley, MD is a pediatric resident physician from East Montpelier, Vermont. She attended medical school at the University of Pittsburgh and is excited to be in beautiful Denver for residency. She loves getting to know families and taking care of children of all ages. She is interested in community health and health equity. In her spare time, she enjoys hiking, yoga and reading fiction.

Holly Frost, MD has been in practice for more than 7 years and sees patients of all ages for their primary care needs. Her research and clinical interests focus on infectious diseases in children, including the development of new tests to rapidly diagnose infections and improved treatment options for common infections of childhood. When not in clinic, Dr. Frost enjoys spending time with her two young boys and hiking in the mountains. Dr. Frost strives to provide compassionate, evidence-based care for children and to treat every child in the way she would want others to care for her own children.

Margaret Hale, PA is a Physician Assistant with a love for taking care of kids and their families. She is originally from Texas where she spent several years working in the pediatric emergency room before relocating to Denver with her husband who is a pediatrician. She enjoys taking care of kids of all ages and helping to ensure they are set up for success in all aspects of their life. In her free time, Margaret enjoys hiking, camping, and riding bikes with her husband, baby boy, and fluffy dog.

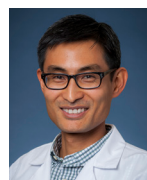

James Kaferly, MD joined the Eastside clinic as a pediatrician in 2018, working both in general pediatrics and the Connections for Kids Clinic. He is a Denver native, between college and medical school, he lived in Guaymas, Sonora, Mexico for ~2 years. He speaks English and Spanish. After working in California, he joined Denver Health in 2015, where he started at the Montbello Family Health Center. Away from work, he and his family enjoy spending time outdoors.

Mollie Lesser, MD is a pediatric resident physician from Chicago, Illinois. She attended the University of Michigan for undergraduate education and Rush University Medical College in Chicago, Illinois for medical school. Her interests include pediatric neurology and in her free time she loves to dance, play soccer, travel, and spend time with family and friends. She is excited to explore Colorado!

Kathy Love, MD has been practicing Pediatrics at the Eastside Peds clinic for over 20 years. She went to school at the University of California at Davis. She enjoys focusing her practice on adolescent medicine and weight management. She is passionate about the LGBTQ community and access to transgender care.

Yosuke Nomura, MD finished his pediatric residency in 2013. He is originally from Japan but grew up in Atlanta, Georgia. He moved to Colorado when he started his residency at Children's Hospital in 2010. Dr. Nomura is interested in pediatric infectious diseases and newborns. He recently had his first child and is becoming an expert diaper changer. Though not fluent, he speaks a little Spanish and hopes to learn more.

Alex Sawyer, MD is a pediatric resident physician from Atlanta, Georgia. She attended the University of Georgia for undergrad and her Master's of Public Health in Epidemiology. She recently moved to Colorado and is excited to be a part of the Gipson Eastside Family Health Center. In her free time, she enjoys spending time with her son and husband, baking, and exploring Denver.

Maggie Tashjian, MD is newer to the Eastside Family Health Center as a pediatric resident. She attended Stanford University for her undergraduate education and the University of Colorado for medical school. She enjoys working with kids of all ages and has a special interest in immigrant health and advocacy. As a Colorado native, Dr. Tashjian enjoys hiking, camping, and exploring the mountains when she is not working in the clinic.

Beth VanderVliet, PA-C graduated from Physician Assistant School at the University of Colorado in 2007. She speaks English and Spanish. Beth states, "I enjoy seeing kids of all ages and meeting their families. I have a special interest in helping kids who are overweight and obese and am also involved with the MEND program at Eastside. I work one day each week at the Pediatric Allergy Clinic at Denver Health and enjoy seeing patients with allergies, eczema and asthma as well."

Florence Wu, MD is a board certified pediatrician who completed medical school at Johns Hopkins University. She has been in practice since graduating from pediatric residency at the University of Washington (Seattle Children's Hospital) in 2013. Her interests include teaching medical students and residents and striving to provide the highest quality medical care to all children in our community. She is proud to be the Team Leader of the Pediatric & Teen Clinic here at the Gipson Eastside Family Health Center. Outside of work, Dr. Wu enjoys reading, cooking, hiking, and camping.
